

NO EGGS-AGGERATION:
AGGERATION OF EGGS

Now and then a story is printed about egg abnormalities and the humble hen gets a passing mention. Arthur Taylor, Jr., a 7-year-old, has a yellow hen which laid an egg which weighed over four ounces and was as large as a turkey egg. She seems to be Buff Orpington stock, or some breed crossed with that strain. Another hen in this same bunch began laying in August, 1923, and has laid about 200 eggs since, rarely missing a day. While no accurate record has been kept since no such record was anticipated, a conservative estimate places her output at that figure. And she continues to work the shell-game.

That Prevents Gasiness.

Those old-time husky eaters often fall down on a glass of milk or a doughnut, the stomach is heavy, fills with gas and is sore and distended. Truth is it has just such attacks always, but they didn't last. Now the stomach needs help and the best thing you can do is to fortify your meals with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They give the stomach the alkaline effect, they help it to digest food, they give it materials to do this with, they absorb the gas, stop acidity, relieve pressure, and no matter whether it is pork and cabbage, pie and cheese, sausages and buckwheats or steak and onions, your stomach works without distress and you have none of those troubles due to indigestion or dyspepsia. Get a 50-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store. Then eat and be merry.

ITCHING ECZEMA
DRIED RIGHT UP
WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema can be quickly overcome by applying a little Menthosulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clean and smooth.

SOAKS RIGHT IN
AND LIMBERS UP
STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists Call It "Joint Ease"
Because it's for Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaky Joints Only

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain-subduing and swelling-reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, painful joints as good as new.

They call the wonderful preparation "Joint Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

"So 'Joint Ease' is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and which is caused by rheumatism or something else."

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore foot because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it sets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

All drug stores dispense it daily for about 50 cents a tube as do first class drug stores everywhere. adv.

Rotarians Honor
Their President,
H. R. Fitzgerald

Today is the birthday of Harry R. Fitzgerald, Danville's most eminent and certainly one of its best citizens, and the Rotary Club, of which he is president, had prepared a surprise for him in anticipation of the day and possibly with a consolatory reflection on the passing of another year. The birthday cake was adorned by 21 candles—actual verities count—and a thoughtful expression by the club of its realization of the youthful spirits of the guest of honor, who was deposited for the time being and was made the surprised recipient of gifts of various kinds, but generally with "a Rotarian" nestling in the folds of the profoundest depth of the wrappings.

The element of fun and humor injected into the celebration did not in any way detract from the serious side of the occasion, but rather accentuated it by the enjoyable contrast. After the fun, the Rotarians passed to several serious and decidedly handsome appreciations of their president to whom a jeweled Rotary lapel-pin, a work of art in bihuetrie, Henry B. Watkins, "Uncle Henry" to Rotarians, was the first speaker and offered a complimentary and discriminating tribute to "Harry," as he is known Rotarily. Mr. Watkins cited the fact that the cake was marked by only twenty-one candles and turned this to happy account in attributing to the man honored a youthfulness of spirit and sympathy that made him really a young and congenial with the youngest member. His solid achievements in the direction of the great textile plant with which he is connected and its almost unparalleled success; his genuine democracy and breadth of sympathy with his fellow-men and his crowning expression in the introduction of really democratic government in the direction of the great enterprise—all these things elicited a farm evulogy from the speaker. Mr. Fitzgerald's public spirit, his character, his interest in all good and worthy things and his noteworthy public service were touched on by the speaker, who paid a tribute warm with admiration and affection—feelings which were shared by the audience. Mr. Watkins presented the birthday cake.

After an enjoyable musical interlude, Dr. Joseph Dunham advanced toward the guest of honor bearing in his hands a bulky cubical package that looked like it might be a hat-box containing a high hat, or a carton containing some swollen gift-wrapped package. With characteristic dignity yet with ready grace of speech and fine intonation, Dr. Dunham presented to Harry a gift from his old friend Al Patton which he had asked the clergyman to present. Curiously, the wheeled package, of a nature that the alternate wrappings of white and blue tissue were unrolled by Mr. Fitzgerald with a patience which he did not, however, disguise that he himself was curious as to what manner of joke-package it might be. Finally, the last wrapping was removed and the diminished cube remaining was a container enclosing one perfectly good golf ball. A great deal of merriment was provoked by this reminder of a busy man's interest in the good old Scotch game.

More songs and merriment ensued in the evening between courses of an admirable dinner. Finally, Rotarian Eugene Withers was called upon, and although he charged that Henry Watkins had said everything except one the speaker demonstrated that it is difficult for any one to speak just and soberly to which he cannot add something worth hearing. Mr. Withers found his text in birthdays, citing some of those which have become national-wide or section or State-wide celebrations and public holidays and then he reverted to the birthday of Harry R. Fitzgerald and characterized it as one well worthy of celebration by the Rotary club. The speaker offered a fine tribute to Mr. Fitzgerald commended his zeal in Rotary, his exemplification of its cardinal principles and, finally, producing a small package, unfolded a beautiful gold and jeweled Rotary watch, of which the honored president had already been characterized as the hub, his fellow-members as the cogs in the rim and the principles which held them together as the spokes. Expressing the view that Mr. Fitzgerald would prize no gift more than such a beautiful reminder of his associations in the club and his enjoyment of the club, he presented the pin, amid much applause.

Mr. Fitzgerald, who had been withheld from responding to the speeches which had preceded, was accorded the floor now and was very happy and cordial in his acknowledgment of all the jokes of which he had been the victim, and of the serious expressions of esteem and affection showered upon him. He confessed to some confusion, however, at the publicity which had been given to the fact that he still has birthdays and which identified the date approximately with the result that many had written or sent messages of congratulation. He did not need to acquit himself of having divulged the secret of his natal day, however, since every man present knew the whole celebration had been planned

The Record of a
Holstein Herd

The summary of the Henrico County Cow Testers' Association for January shows that the purchased Holstein herd of 32 cows belonging to R. H. Pemberton led the list with an average monthly production of 933 pounds of milk and 31.9 pounds of butter fat. The 12 cow grade Guernsey herd of T. D. Burfoot was second with 594 pounds of milk and 31.5 pounds of butter fat. The 20 cow grade Guernsey herd of J. C. McKesson was third with 649 pounds of milk and 31.4 of butter fat. The 23 cow grade Jersey herd of R. N. Nelson was fourth with 662 pounds of milk and 31.3 pounds of butter fat. R. N. Pemberton and the Guernsey herd were tied for the owner having the greatest number of cows producing over 40 pounds of butter fat during the month, each having 10 head. Winston Farm was second in this class with seven. W. H. Sanders, J. C. McKesson, R. O. Horney, and H. W. Gillis tied for third with six each. There were eighteen dairymen having cows producing more than 40 pounds of butter fat during the month, with a total number of 87 cows in the class.

The total number of cows in the association were 531 with 496 in milk. The production of the cows in the association was 380,845 pounds of milk and 14,354.3 pounds of butter fat. This gave an average production per cow, according to the summary of 644 pounds of milk and 25.1 pounds of butter fat.

The first three highest producers were purchased Holsteins, the fourth being a grade Guernsey. The purebreds in order of their standing were Duanna Walker, 2nd, Minibora Farm, 3rd, 977 pounds of milk and 80.0 pounds of fat; Aeggie, R. H. Nelson, Jr., 1754 pounds of milk and 70.2 pounds of fat; and Ross, X Beck, 1699 pounds of milk and 67.7 pounds of butter fat.

NEWLYWEDS MANAGE TO EVADE REPORTERS

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Barred behind the doors of their suite in the Hotel Sherman, Jessie Reed and Mr. Young, the bride of William T. Young, Jr., today successfully resisted the efforts of various reporters who wanted to ask both of them a lot of questions.

Mr. Young is 26 years old and a copy writer for the Poster Advertising Company of this city. He and Miss Reed met at a dinner party, fell in love with each other on sight and a few hours later hastened to a taxicab to Waukegan where they were married at 2 o'clock in the morning.

The persistent reporters put over that sheif-worn scheme of announcing an important engagement and bride to the door but they would not open it. In response to questions Jessie said her new husband was strikingly handsome, tall, with fine brown hair and eyes and a tired look. "Have a heart," pleaded Mr. Young. "Mrs. Young doesn't want any publicity."

AGED NEGRO DIES

David Barksdale living at 332 Spence street, died at home Monday morning, February 25th after a long illness of about two years. The funeral services will be held at High Street Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Eighteen inches of skin will be grafted on one of them and man who smoked a cigar in bed.

As a surprise, He told an anecdote with a keen humorous point and applied it effectively. Continuing, he strove to express his real pleasure in the expressions and the tangible manifestations of the esteem and affection of his fellow-Rotarians and made an excellent response in his happiest vein and was given a great hand by his associates and friends. This virtually closed the program which had been liberally interspersed with songs one of them with words arranged by Will Parker to a familiar air with the effect of a personal song-appreciation of Harry R. Fitzgerald. Other songs from the song-sheet were made to ring by the chorus of male voices, but a duet several quiet numbers and plenty of instrumental music contributed to the melody of an occasion in which there was not a discord, musically or in the happy spirit of the occasion.

TROTSKY WINS
FIGHT OVER RED
ARMY ARRESTS

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—Leon Trotsky, erstwhile Russian minister of war, has won his fight with the communists over red army arrests. Telegraphic news received from Moscow today reports that his second ultimatum has been accepted by the central executive committee.

Over the protests of M. Zinovieff, Stalin and Kamaney, the committee adopted this resolution: "Taking into consideration the second warning of the latest uprisings in the red army in Siberia, the Ukrainians and elsewhere, and of strikes of political character in industrial centers, the committee resolves to cease all prosecutions against high officials of the red army."

YOUNG MATRON IS HELD FOR MURDER

(By The Associated Press.)
CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 26.—Mrs. Nettie Annell, 21, who told detectives how she defended her home against three men with an automatic pistol in a gun battle Sunday night, in which two of the attacking party, Michael Mariani, and Ralph Tanase, were killed, was held on a charge of murder today with two men who were in the house during the battle. The men were Phillip Annell, cousin of the young woman's second husband, and Vito Di Vello. Both, according to detectives, admitted firing some of the shots in the volley which killed the two men.

Detective Charles Cavolo, who investigated the case, declared he had refuted the story of the young woman in its three major details—that she did all of the shooting from the house, that the attackers fired first, and that the men demanded money from her father under threat of death.

Evidence he secured, Cavolo said, indicated that Mrs. Annell, Di Vello and Phillip Annell all opened fire from the house.

IMPORTANT CHEMICAL DISCOVERY IS MADE

(By The Associated Press.)
BOSTON, Feb. 26.—A chemical discovery said to be one of the most important of the 20th century has just been made at the Fixed Nitrogen Research Laboratory at Washington. Professor Arthur E. Lamb, of Harvard, announced here tonight.

The discovery is that of a new catalyst which will bring about the permanent union of hydrogen and nitrogen atoms will yield 14 per cent of ammonia. Professor Lamb said.

FRANK McFALLS

VENUS WAS RATHER
A DISAPPOINTMENT

The musical comedy Venus which was presented last night to a full house at the Majestic theatre is not as beautiful a production as its name might signify. There was plenty of pulchritude in the chorus and the play was colorful but it was lacking in those elements of smartness and that intangible "Broadway" touch which has marked nearly all of the offerings which Frank Sohmer has brought here this season was not in evidence.

The one outstanding feature of the play was the quality of humor afforded by "Apollo" enacted by Johnny Getz. He was at times tiresome but in the second act when the production notably improved the counter-part of Venus was at his height and the audience had little rest from that time on. There was no substantial plot. There is a strand of a "story" affording the vehicle for the production but like most productions of its type it is a series of songs, serious and comic, ballets and chorus numbers and numerous changes of scenery. There is a scene in which a clever, especially the brief moment when the rear platform of a train was shown with an optical delusion making the train appear in motion.

Individual reference to the artists should include Miss Nyra Brown as "Venus" and Arthur Brown as "John Rodney" whose voices easily led those of the other members of the cast. One of the features of the musical comedy was the runway leading from the stage to the parterre which was used by the chorus which mingled with the audience from time to time singing their songs and distributing favors—quite a number of these finding their way to two boxes where stag parties were occupants and at least one member of which was referred to from time to time by the comedian.

Summing up the musical comedy, it lives only through the energy of Mr. Getz and its scenic display. But for them it could not be compared favorably with the more ambitious offerings of the same type seen here this season.

RAIN FORECAST
FOR CAROLINAS

NEW YORK WILL BE "DRY" WHEN DEMOCRATS MEET

By ROBERT T. SMALL
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The real fight of the country who have figured on coming to a "wide open" New York next June are doomed to disappointment. Orders have gone out to clean up the town. Three months ago the city was in a state of confusion, but now it is a different story. The city will be a "dry" city by June 1. There will be no speakeasies, blind pigs or liquor peddling restaurants in existence. From June 1, to the date of the convention, New York will be a "dry" city. The police do not like to ride the city of the predatory bootlegger. They say would be asking too much in the allotted space of time. The bootlegger is a "wet" man, and he is not a "dry" man. Where whiskey, gin and beer are sold over the bar or over the counter in open and wanton violation of the Volstead act.

The New York police say they are going to clean up the place alone. Help will be welcome but they have not asked for federal aid. Squads are being organized in the police department, and police commissioners will check up on the special service men and see that they do not fail.

Commissioner Enright believes the police can clean up New York once they make up their mind to do it. He believes that every "predator" man knows exactly where the "wide open" places are in his bailiwick and can put his hands on the violators of the law at any moment.

The country in general will be changed by this previous conception of New York. There is a new New York, a New York which will not allow what the rest of the country thinks of it. New York also is conscious of the fact that the greater part of the United States before the 18th amendment was adopted and it is not proper that the delegates and visitors to the national convention shall have their morals shocked by anything they may see or may do while in the metropolis.

Frankly it is admitted that the big fund subscribed to get the democratic convention to New York was to "dry" the city and showing the people of the hinterland that their biggest city is not as bad as it has been painted.

Unquestionably there will be plenty of liquor to be had in the city during the week of the convention but it will have to be bought surreptitiously. Up to this time, it has been possible, as a matter of fact it has been easy, to purchase liquor across the bar at no much per drink. This is the phase of law violation the police are striking at. They agree that open saloons during the convention would give a bad impression. Their real idea is to show the liquor question should be solved, but it does not intend to impose these views upon its convention visitors.

The police say that no city yet has found the means of suppressing the bootlegger for as fast as one is arrested another seems to spring up to take his place. So if the stranger in New York is able to buy whiskey during the convention, it is argued that he will be able to do this in almost any community if willing to pay the price.

Recently it was estimated that on about five per cent of the foreign liquors landed in the United States fall into the hands of the prohibition enforcement officers. This leaves a flood of it on hand, especially along the seaboard.

New York is anxious however, that the delegates shall spend their money in the shops of the city and at the theatres. The convention period is to be the greatest, theatrically, the city has known. The New York managers have seized upon the convention as a device to show any of the smaller cities of the nation and are making plans for all sorts of new productions to be on tap for the first production of the city.

This is the biggest political convention ever, with hundreds of thousands of visitors jamming Fifth avenue and the Grand Central station. The convention spirit which has seized New York shows that all the Babbitts are not out on Main street.

LABOR GOVT. AGAIN SAVED FROM DEFEAT

Liberals Prove "Life Saver" For British Present Administration—Kill Conservative Measure Relative to Unemployed.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
LONDON, Feb. 27.—The minority labor government has again been saved from defeat, this time by the liberals. Many members of that party voted with the government in the House of Commons last night and defeated, 295 to 288, a conservative motion for closure, after debate on the recent action of the health minister in rescinding the orders of his predecessors and allowing the Popular Guardians a virtually free hand in dispensing relief to the unemployed.

Former Premier Asquith opened the subject of "populism" in the house two weeks ago and after his bitter arraignment of Mr. Wheatley, the health minister, it was for a time thought the liberals might proceed seriously against the government, which remains in office only on sufferance of the two older parties.

The liberals, however, tempered their attitude and were satisfied yesterday with Premier MacDonald's assurance that no illegal expenditure had been or would be sanctioned and that the administration of relief by the Popular Guardians was not defended either by himself or by the health minister. He also promised an inquiry into the working of the poor law.

The liberal motion condemning Mr. Wheatley's action as "calculated to encourage illegality and extravagance" amendment demanding that "the amount of the poor law relief be calculated on a lower scale than the earnings of the independent workman who is maintaining himself by labor."

Boom For Glass For President Is Plan of Friends

BY GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of The Danville Bee)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The Glass-for-President movement promises to take on a larger aspect if plans to be urged upon the Society of Virginia here meet with approval.

At Thursday night's meeting of the society, speakers will launch the idea that in the Virginia Senator the Democracy has an ideal candidate, especially fitted to lead the party on a platform of clean government and integrity in office.

Among the speakers at the meeting will be Congressman Woodrum of the Sixth district, from which Senator Glass hails, and he will sound the note of nation-wide necessity for the Democracy to agree upon the right leader without further ado. Other speakers are to follow, joining in the chorus.

Senator Glass himself will not be at the meeting or indeed in the city but he is home in Lynchburg. He is advised of what is in contemplation. When asked if he would comment, he indicated no desire to be interviewed, contenting himself with the observation that he "could not help" what the meeting did.

When Senator Glass was first spoken of in connection with the 1924 nomination, he discouraged the talk. Finally, he agreed to let his friends in his home state have their way and support him for the nomination. He is understood to be assured of the state's delegation to the national convention, yet to be chosen.

But the Senator decisively rejected the idea of a national campaign for delegates. He was willing to have his own delegation, if his friends insisted, but beyond that he would not go.

Thursday night's meeting of the Society of Virginia may mark a definite enlargement of the movement for Mr. Glass. Friends here say it will.

STORM HOTEL AND BREAK UP KLAN MEETING

Mob of 3,000 Disband Attempted Organization Meeting in Wisconsin Town—Wild Scenes Occur.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WAUKEGISHA, Wis., Feb. 27.—Three thousand persons stormed the Commercial Hotel, in the heart of the downtown district last night, put out the lights, smashed windows, broke doors and disbanded an attempted Ku Klux Klan organization meeting being held which speakers of national prominence were scheduled to appear. The klansmen escaped to the second floor of the hotel, from which they later were rescued, unharmed, by police and men called from Milwaukee after Captain Harry Welch, post commander of the Waukegesha post of the American Legion, had addressed the attackers from the shoulders of several men.

The meeting was the result of about two weeks effort to organize a klans unit here. When the klansman arose and announced that a prayer would open the meeting, he was greeted with cat-calls, jeers and howls and a man jumped on a table and waved a pistol. A dozen men pushed through the broken door of the hotel and, with drawn revolvers, announced "the meeting is off."

The lights went out, the wires having been cut and the rest of the hotel was thrown into darkness. A concerted rush was made toward the klans speakers and organizers. Sympathizers shielded them, and in the jumble succeeded in getting them out through a side door and up to the second floor, where they remained at bay two hours.

Contractor Will Hold to Terms of Bridge Contract

(Special to The Bee)
WENTWORTH, N. C., Feb. 27.—Complications are beginning to crop up in the recent action taken by the Rockingham county commissioners who rescinded the motion authorizing the building of a bridge across Dan River at Fishing Creek. Public clamor was such that a majority of the commissioners hardened to the voice of their constituents, but there is still one major difficulty to be surmounted. Before the action to rescind had been taken a contract had been awarded to the Luten Bridge Company which already has had a gang of men at work preparing the foundation for the pillars of the concrete structure. W. H. Long, representative of the company, has made a public statement in which he asserts that the bridge will be built and that he has no intention of disrupting the contract. He also makes it plain that it requires concerning action on two parties to any contract to rescind it and the company has no such intention, having ordered the material for the bridge some of this having already been shipped.

Christmas Mother Plan Is Suggested By Dr. S. T. Senter

Social workers of the city gathered at one o'clock this afternoon at the Elpis Triangle to hear a report from Miss Margaret Maxon on the question of initiating an organization of workers and discussions by Mrs. W. T. Harris, judge of the Juvenile court, Dr. Samuel T. Senter, pastor of Mount Vernon Methodist church, both speakers presenting forceful messages dealing with problems of peculiar interest to those assembled around the luncheon table.

Miss Maxon's report indicated that the definite establishment of a social welfare worker's club should come when there was a spontaneous expression in favor of it and opposed formation of a society which would be artificial and not meeting an outright demand for one from the workers themselves.

Judge Harris chiefly discussed the problem, which is presented by girls in their teens being permitted to attend moving picture theatres at night without chaperones and of the influence which the movies have on the adolescent mind, especially of girls.

Harris based her remarks upon the experiences she has encountered in dealing with difficult domestic problems.

Dr. Senter in his address offered the suggestion of the appointment of a "Christmas Mother" for Danville next winter through home charitable impulses which are manifested at that season might be directed along the best lines. The "Christmas Mother" would be a clearing house through whom persons and organizations wishing to bestow gifts might secure names of families. This also would eliminate duplication and the result in bounty being more widely bestowed.

Injured Before Birth, Child Brings Suit

(By Chicago Tribune Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—The right of an infant to sue for damages because of injuries received before birth was established today by Judge Gordon in Common Pleas Court.

This decision, which is without precedence in Pennsylvania, was made in the suit of Florence Kline, infant daughter of Israel Kline. She was injured a month and eleven days before birth.

William Zuckerman, driver of the automobile which struck the mother, is declared to be liable for damages.

Feels Made Over

McLoud says friends now remark about his fine health since he took Tanlac. Was physical wreck.

When I compare my present perfect health with the physical wreck I was a few years ago, I can say Tanlac has accomplished something bordering on the miraculous," as the precise statement of Harry McLoud, prominent fraternal order man and veteran employee of the Bethlehem Ship Building Corporation, Sparrows Point, Md.

"Everywhere I go my friends ask me what has given me back such robust health, and I answer with one word—Tanlac."

"At forty-five I was almost a complete physical and nervous wreck, and had to spend fourteen weeks in hospital. About a year and a half ago I took my first Tanlac, and there bottles made a marked improvement in my appetite and general condition. Last March I resumed the treatment, and half a bottle a week has run my weight up, thirty-five pounds, leaving me just like a man made over. Tanlac is simply the best medicine for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitutes. Over 46 million bottles sold."

Duffy Murder Mystery Partly Cleared, Belief

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Mystery surrounding the deaths of John Duffy, whose body was found near Argo, Ill., last Friday, 12 hours before the body of his wife, Marie Duffy, was found in their Chicago apartment, is partly dispelled following a statement by William Engelke, that he was present when Duffy killed his wife during a quarrel and that Duffy later was killed by Engelke after he threatened to expose her refusing to help dispose of his wife's body. When arrested early today, Engelke was preparing to leave Chicago.

Detectives are searching for several men mentioned by Engelke as having driven away with Duffy when he last saw him.

Pay Tribute to Harding's Memory, Eulogy Broadcast

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The Senate and House today united to pay their formal tribute to the memory of President Harding.

Laying aside a pending legislation and submerging their various animosities the members of both chambers met jointly in the presence of President Coolidge, his cabinet, the supreme court justices, state governors and foreign diplomatic representatives to hear an eulogy of his late chief by Secretary Hughes. A section of the gallery was reserved for Mrs. Harding and a group of her friends. Arrangements to broadcast the service throughout the nation by radio called upon the facilities of three stations—by WCAP, at Washington, on a 369 metre wave length and by WJAF, at New York, and WJAF, at Providence, R. I., through relay.

MR. EMERSON'S FUNERAL

Funeral services for Pleasant W. Emerson who died at the home of his son on Park Avenue early Monday morning were conducted yesterday afternoon at half past two o'clock by Rev. P. A. Mickel and Rev. L. P. McCullough. Interment took place in Leontine cemetery. The pall bearers were W. A. Hill, J. W. Kirby, and A. L. Southard. The flower bearers were W. A. Hill, D. H. Hill, W. H. Mowry, G. E. Conaway, J. A. Smith and L. E. Perkins.

W. T. Hughes & Co. Purchased Graveley Plant For $30,000

W. T. Hughes & Co., Inc., leaf tobacco dealers, have purchased from E. C. Aray the large brick factory on Loyal street, which they have been renting for the sum of $24,000, according to a deed of bargain and sale recorded at the office of the clerk of the court. Two lots are embraced in the transfer, one fronting 27 feet on Loyal street and the other adjoining, being 103 feet, both running back a considerable distance. The factory is better known perhaps as the old Graveley factory, the products from which made a national name for themselves many years ago.

Other deeds include transfers from Rose Barnes to Lizzie Patterson $11,000; 69 feet on Paxton street, for $4,500; W. F. Motley, W. H. and Orland Shelton from J. W. Chambers, 60 feet on Cliff street for $850.

MARRIAGE LICENSE ISSUED

One wedding license was issued yesterday by the clerk of the corporation court, this being to McKim Walker and Mary E. Owen both of this city.

What's in a name?

The early years of the oil industry were chaotic. Everybody drilled for oil. Nobody refined it. There were few standards of production. Then, in 1870, a company was incorporated which gradually brought order into the business. Appropriately enough it was named the Standard Oil Company.

Fifty-four years ago, in the infant days of a new industry, a group of far-sighted men organized a company to bring order out of chaos.

They called their enterprise Standard Oil Company because they meant to make it standard.

Today the final argument for less well-known petroleum products is the promise that "You will find this as good as 'Standard'."

"Standard" gasoline is standard, was the standard yesterday and will be the standard tomorrow. "Standard" Polarine sets the standard by which other good lubricating oils are made.

The "Standard" practice of charging a narrow margin of profit and getting a return through volume of sales has never changed.

Buy "Standard" gasoline, "Standard" Polarine oils, "Standard" kerosene or any other "Standard" products if you want certainty of performance.

S.S.S. stops Rheumatism

And with it pain and its probability of reaching the heart.

"Rheumatism? Me? No, indeed, it's all gone, every bit of it! It's sunshine and joy for me now for the first time in years. I feel a wonderful story

"My Rheumatism is all gone." again in the free motion I used to have when my days were younger. I look at my hands and think of the twists and swellings they used to have. I bend way over to the floor. I haven't been able to do that in many years. I can thank S. S. S. for it all! To me it was a rising sun of joy and liberty. Brothers and sisters in misery, do not close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. It is here and now for all of you. S. S. S. is waiting to help you. There is a reason why S. S. S. will help you. When you increase the number of your red blood cells, the entire system undergoes a tremendous change. Everything depends on blood strength. Blood which is minus sufficient red cells leads to a long list of troubles. Rheumatism is one of them. S. S. S. is the great blood-cleanser, blood-builder, system strengthener, nerve invigorator. It stops skin eruptions, too, pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, eczema. It builds up run-down, tired men and women, beautifies complexion, makes the flesh firmer. Start S. S. S. today. It is sold at all drug stores. The larger size is more economical.

THREE UNITE TO BRING CHILDREN BACK IN FOLD

By JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT
NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Catholic, Jew and Protestant leaders, putting aside all religious differences, have combined to stay the growing disrepute of the younger generation for orthodox teachings.

"If the ideals of America are to be carried forward," they say, "our youngsters must be grounded in the religious faith of their fathers."

So they plan to establish week-day Sunday-schools, where children will come after their other school hours, to refresh their minds with generous applications of the Old and New Testaments.

But it is only in this way, these educators believe, that the lack of respect and lack of idealism in personal conduct which are eating away our national life may be stopped.

So far the movement is limited to the children here. A meeting of 800 representatives of all three religious faiths this morning was adopted: "Every New York child under the systematic religious instruction of its faith."

But eventually these leaders hope to enlarge it to cover the whole country. Working hand in hand to bring about this move are Dr. David De Solia Pool, rabbi, the Right Rev. Michael Lavelle, Catholic, and the Rev. Walter M. Howlett, Protestant.

Says the rabbi, who is head of the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue: "Fully three-quarters of the Jewish children in the United States are receiving no systematic religious training."

"There is no one who reads the daily newspapers but who is aware that there is an alarming deterioration among all classes of population of personal and social morality that brings so many young men in their teens and twenties into the courts."

"We cannot hope to maintain our

high traditional Jewish standards so long as we as a community fail to give adequate moral and religious training to the child while he is still young and responsive."

Says Monsignor Lavelle: "The movement to secure religious instruction for all the children is one of the most important projects before the public today. It concerns intimately the happiness of mankind, the salvation of immortal souls, the stability of the republic, the glory of our flag and the peace of the world."

"The obstacles are apathy and failure to realize the immense number of our children who receive no religious training whatsoever."

Says the Rev. Howlett, director of 400 daily vacation Bible schools:

"Figures show there are 282,066 children registered in the public schools of Manhattan and only 149,604 registered in Sunday schools. And the former figure does not include the children in parochial schools while the latter includes children of all faiths."

"Probably only one child in five receives regular systematic religious instruction."

"Instead of fighting one another we should all get together and fight evil. You can't lose respect for law and have civilization persist. Our children must have religious and moral training."

And all agree that the training should be outside of school hours and away from school buildings.

WOMEN COMING IN MEN ARE GOING OUT

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—As the first of March appears over the horizon, it looks very much as if the men of the United States are going out like lambs and the women are coming in like lions. All the elements of the news hereabout today indicate that the female of the species are becoming more and more belligerent, while the poor males are endeavoring to fit themselves to live up to the ideals that women once had of them.

There has been a hard effort on the part of the males, but none the less it is a genuine one.

Girl bandits are running riot over Greater New York. For a time, they confined themselves to Brooklyn, the home of the perambulator and the rubber plant. Now they have invaded Manhattan.

While all this is going on, the Brooklyn Young Men's Christian League is completing its plans for a class in marriage. Young men will be added to these classes and the effort will be made to turn them out as model husbands.

Things are progressing in a topsy-turvy world there is no doubt that cooking and light house keeping will be included as one of the masculine lessons to be learned if later marriage is to be made a success.

The young men will also be taught that they must not expect every wife to be willing to assume the husband's name. The Lucy Stone League, which insists upon retaining their maiden names, is flourishing and gaining new recruits and victories almost daily.

One of the marvelous accomplishments of the league lately was winning the right to take books out of the public library in one's own name instead of the name of one's husband.

The next aim of the league is to have the United States government abolish its antiquated custom of requiring a married woman to give her married name in taking out a passport to go abroad. That custom is regarded by the league as positively barbarous and some of the members have refrained from visiting Europe under the handicap of being Mrs. so and so.

The Lucy Stone League pulled something of a boner at their annual dinner last night, insisting on inviting Miss Amy Lowell, the poet to address them. Miss Lowell went to the mat with the leaguers. She told them that the wish to retain their maiden names was nothing more or less than an exaggerated ego. She said a woman could take her husband's name and then continue to boss him.

HODGES MAKES ADDRESS AT LYNCHBURG, VA.

(By the Associated Press.)

LYNCHBURG, Va., Feb. 26.—Colonel LeRoy Hodges, business manager of the State Chamber of Commerce, here today addressed a gathering of 5 local business men, explaining in a 4-minute talk the five year program of the state body. He showed this to be the development of Hampton Roads as a port development of agricultural resources of the state, equitable taxation, attraction of industries to Virginia and the development of efficient state, county and municipal governments.

The address was followed by a round table discussion.

DAILY PUZZLE

Nine small squares of equal size may be easily formed into one large square, as shown in the drawing; for nine is a square number. But if one square is removed (see drawing), the eight remaining sections do not form a perfect square.

However, by making two straight cuts across the eight square figures, it may be broken into four pieces, which will fit together to form a perfect square. Try it!

Yesterday's answer:

If the son was one-eighth of twice four, and forty, his age might have been six.

If he were one-eighth of twice forty-four, he would have been one-eighth of eighty-eight, or 11.

But twice four, and forty is 48: (twice 4 equals 8, and 40 totals 48).

One-eighth of 48 is 6!

BABE MAY SAVE MOTHER'S LIFE

Girl of Nineteen Has Seen
More "Life" Than Nine-Tenths of Her Sex in Lifetime—Tried For Murder.

By J. P. YODER

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Kitty Baluk Malm's two-year-old daughter may yet do for her what she has been unable to accomplish for herself—lead her out of the pit of life into which she has fallen and where today there is only a dim ray of hope.

This child of the streets, who at nineteen can can look back on more "life" in the "raw" than nine-tenths of her sex encounter in a lifetime, has sat in criminal court here for two days, determined living up to her reputation of "tiger woman."

Her stoic calm has been broken occasionally by a sneer that curled her lips when one of the more impressive jurors cringed in his seat when the cold blooded shooting to death of Edward Lehman, night watchman, was described in detail, of when a girl "friend" of Kitty's told of an alleged confession she had made.

Twice during the selection of jurors, she smiled rather pitily at talesmen who said they couldn't send a mother to the gallows.

She started out of countenance the police captain who testified to her wringing from her husband, under a grilling that failed to shake her, a confession that he had shot Lehman in the latter's home, whether he had gone with Kitty.

In an ante-room her lawyer was heard to plead with her not to hold her icy attitude before the jury. He wanted her to show a little emotion—a little appeal.

"What," she exclaimed, "turn white before them guys and them rubber necks? I'll say I won't."

But that was before her mother brought her baby to the court room. She turned twice to look at the child when coughing spells wracked its thin body. But she quickly filled the flash of hunger in her eyes and turned almost fiercely back to the court.

At noon recess the baby was carried to her. She stepped toward it when coughing spells wracked its thin body. But she quickly filled the flash of hunger in her eyes and turned almost fiercely back to the court.

told it had been taken to a hospital with whooping cough. She stiffened and stood motionless until the crowd had filed out. Then she fainted. When she regained consciousness, she said: "Well, I hope the gang don't learn about that. They'd sure kill me."

"That would be good stuff for the jury to see," said the bailiff who helped restore her.

"Well, they'll never get a picture of me doing that," she flashed. But the bailiff who is wise and old in his business, said after she had gone: "Of course that jury is locked up and well guarded, but I'll bet a hat they know all about it before the trial is over, and that the kid, without testifying, is going to save its mother's life."

PUBLIC SENTIMENT RIPE
FOR ACTION

While the city school board has not publicly announced what course to pursue in remedying existing local conditions we are informed on high authority that it has in mind going
before the people with a bond issue, possibly slightly less than the one which failed last year. If there was any doubt as to the wisdom of voting bonds for schools we believe that the events of the past few months have revealed very clearly the compelling necessity for immediate steps towards enlarging the school plants and providing sufficient room for all of the children in this city. The constant agitation and the personal experiences of scores of Danville voters with regard to the tuition of their children has brought the problem home with unquestioned force. Public sentiment is ripe for affirmative action and the people of the community are more interested today in doing something at once instead of hearing theories of money raising discussed in the public prints. The municipal election in June will be the time for the bond issue for the interest in the outcome of the election of nine councilmembers and a mayor will prove a magnet to the electorate of far greater potency than a bond issue for schools by itself would. It is hard to believe that Danville as a community of progressive people will turn its back on the school bond issue with the revelation of the school situation in its true colors during the past six months.

PEOPLE ENTITLED TO KNOW

In the discussion about the Teapot
Dome and Californian oil leases,
there is one thing that puzzles the average citizen, and that is the failure of everyone concerned to keep the oil—the oil—the oil.

It is the understanding of the average citizen that the oil reserves were set aside for the navy to meet a great emergency. Oil had become the navy's chief fuel. It would continue to be the navy's chief fuel for a long time. As long as the navy could buy oil cheaply and in the requisite quantities from private dealers, it could get along without using its reserves; but in case oil prices became prohibitive, or the private supply failed, or the navy became involved in a long war which would call for development of its reserve supply,
there would be these virgin fields
with hundreds of millions of barrels waiting to be tapped.

Along comes a report that the reserves are being drained, and what happens? Not a single effort is made to protect this supply of oil as oil.
No safeguards are thrown around the reserves areas, in spite of the unquestioned government right of eminent domain, permitting it to acquire adjacent lands where drilling had been undertaken. Instead, it is decided to sink wells on the government
reserves and bring the oil to the surface. Still, it is oil, and oil which the navy requires for use. But is it kept for the navy? Far from it. Under the contracts with Doheny and Sinclair, most of it goes to them in exchange for the construction of storage tanks. According to Senator Walsh, only 5 per cent. of the oil withdrawn from the reserves becomes available for naval use. But it was the original intention of the government to receive 100 per cent.

The government could always find money with which to build tanks for storage; it could always finance the building of wells and the transportation of the oil. What was essential was the oil itself; for once that is gone,

It is gone forever.
The supply of oil in the earth is limited; there is just so much of it,
and when that is used up, nature will supply no more.

But instead of preserving this supply as oil, the various governmental agencies involved paid out a lot of this precious fluid for wells and tanks
and transportation.

There was at least one man in the government, up to March, 1921 who remained true to the idea that the navy's oil was being kept for a specific purpose—to become the navy's fuel when it should be needed, and was not to be bartered for tanks or anything else. That man was Joseph Daniels. When he was told that the oil reserves were threatened, and that their oil content must be realized, he said he would protect the government's source of supply with a force of marines, if necessary. That was the proper attitude. The government had law and power on its side, but instead of employing them,
its agents hurried to make a deal with the oil barons by which it obtained only a small fraction of the precious product.

The average citizen would like to know why the Daniels policy was not continued by the Harding administration; why it was that the strongest power in the world was incapable of protecting its resources. The blame cannot all be laid on Mr. Fall and Mr. Leno. There was negligence all along the line, and the people of the United States would like to know
the why and wherefore.

JESSE AND STOCK MARKET

Jesse Livermore, the most spectacular trader on the New York stock exchange, issued a statement that he had withdrawn from "constructive action" on the exchange. Immediately stocks fell from 2 to 7 points.

Last fall when the market was and had been for months in the doldrums,
Mr. Livermore issued a statement that he had turned bullish. The market took on new life at once and began an advance which lasted for months.

Doubtless economic laws would have caused the market to act as it did in time without the approbation of Mr. Livermore. The fact, however, that it instantly took its cue
from the words shows him the possessor of extraordinary power.

Those who persist in seeking riches
by way of the stock exchange would do well to pray to the Goddess of Chance that during the time of their commitments, Mr. Livermore will sleep well, enjoy his meals and not get caught in the rain without his rubbers.

A SOUTHERN RAILWAY ADVER-TISEMENT.

(Greensboro News.)
We believe that the quarter-page
advertisement of the Southern Railway in Tuesday's papers is worth more than passing notice. It is a statement for more pay for schoolteachers in the south. So short a time ago that men still young remember it well one would have as-soon expected the horned red devil to rise in support of prohibition as the Southern Railway, or its successors, to support the cause of education in the south. Nevertheless, the thing has come to pass.
We quote from the ad:

The Southern Railway system, which pays three million dollars per annum in school taxes, voices not only its own best interest but the ambition of its 60,000 employees in respect to the future of their children and the nation when it expresses the view that greater rewards should be offered the men and women who are building southern citizenship of tomorrow.

But let no one harbor for an instant the suspicion that the Southern Railway has become an eleemosynary institution, or is suffering from softening of the brain. On the contrary, the railroad is still run for the profit that is in it, and it is being run more intelligently than ever before in its history. In fact, it is just the intelligence in its executive officers that leads it to adopt the policy voiced in the advertisement. The Southern expects to be here for many long years to come.
If the territory through which it runs 29 years hence is inhabited by a population appreciably better educated than the population that inhabits it today, it will be a far more prosperous territory and therefore a far more profitable territory
for the railroad.

It is a pity that in many sections of the south statesmanship is less capable of vision and foresight than business as represented by the railroad company.

DRAKES BRANCH, February 27.—
(Grapevine Wireless.)—The old apple tree.

Once upon a time there was a man who owned an apple tree. Season after season it bore him a goodly crop. But one summer and other
summers infested one of his branches and the apples
thereon were of poor quality. In disgust the man felled the tree and cut down his tree. A neighbor coming into the yard, asked him, "My dear man, why have you destroyed your wonderful
apple tree?"

"It is of no use to me any more,"
said the irritated farmer. "Look at all those rotten apples," pointing to the diseased branch.
"But," said the neighbor, "my good man, you haven't noticed the apples on the other branches. The trouble was with this one branch. The insects spoiled it. You should have cut off that branch instead of cutting down the entire tree."

The above is applicable to many a business. Frequently when things go wrong, the merchant will blame it on advertising without investigation.
Our advice to many a merchant is to study the situation thoroughly.
Don't wreck the foundation of the Bacteria in Ice Cream.

Ice cream is occasionally the cause of disease. It causes disease because of spoilage, but more frequently because it carries bacteria which cause disease. Some of these are the bacteria of food poisoning and some of the infectious diseases of childhood, including tuberculosis. There is no disease that can be milk borne, but that it can be ice cream borne. There is nothing in the process of making ice cream which is destructive to bacterial life. If there is reason for milk ordinances and milk inspection, there is the same reason for ice cream ordinances and ice cream inspection.

Years ago milk laws and ordinances became the rule. To this rule there are now no exceptions amongst the governments that pretend to care a tinker's hurr for the health and welfare of the people. When ice cream ordinances were rooked a few years ago, the ice cream industry frowned on them. Has not the time come to utice cream on the same high plane that milk now is? Why do not ice cream makers get behind such proposed legislation? The milk people are now behind the legislation for milk inspection because they have found that the stability of the producer and the welfare of the consumer are as one.

Fabian and Crowley have recently published a study of ice cream made at the Michigan Agricultural College.
They made the study in a high grade ice cream plant in which there was a high standard of cleanliness and in which pasteurization was well done.

They examined all the ingredients
of the mix—the condensed milk,
cream, powder, gelatin, and flavor.
They examined the product before
after freezing, after homogenizing, after adding done to increase viscosity or smoothness, and after storing or holding in a refrigerator. The findings were as follows: The ingredients going into the mix which had the highest count was the gelatin. The gelatin used was gelatin, not glue.

Among the conclusions arrived at
were: Pasteurization should be done;
packaging at 150 for thirty minutes
at 58.57 per cent. perfect as to destruction of bacteria; every operation subsequent to pasteurization has a general tendency to increase the bacterial count. Even freezing at a temperature of about zero Fahrenheit increases the count. So does aging to increase viscosity. Sometimes storage of ice cream at a point a little below zero increases the count. Homogenizing increases the count.

FORTUNE'S FOOL

By RAFAEL SABATINI
Illustrated by R.M. BATTERFIELD

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Colonel Holmes, soldier and adventurer, returns to England, the land of his birth, when war is declared with Holland. He comes to lodge with Martha Quinn, widow of the young man's father. The suspicion narrows the remains of his anger. "Name
it, take your money, and give me
peace."

But she was no longer thinking of her score. She was stricken with amusement at the sight of the purse
he held, and the gold with which it bulged. Round-eyed she stared at it, and then at him. And then, because she could not conjecture the source of this sudden wealth, she must assume the worst, with the readiness to which such minds as hers are prone. The suspicion narrowed her blue eyes, it settled into conviction, and fetched an unpleasant curl to the lips of her broad mouth.

And how come you by this gold?"
she asked him slithering quiet.

"Is that your affair, madam?"
"I thought you were above pursecutting," she said, mightily disdain-ful. "But it seems I was as deceived
in you there as in other ways."

That, as you realize, was but the beginning of a scene which I have no mind to give you all the details.
Her voice shrilled up like an oyster-woman's, drawing the attention of the few who occupied the common room, and fetching Tim the drawer
in alarm to the door of the little parlor.

And for all his anger, Colonel Holmes began to be vaguely alarmed, for his conscience, as you know, was not altogether easy, and appearances might easily be construed against him.

"You thieving brazen traitor," she was bawling! "Do you think to coming in here at me, you that have turned my reputable house into a den of thieves! I'll learn you manners, you impudent gallow's-bird!"
And she then caught sight of Tim's scared face, and the Duke's look of astonishment, and she broke round the opening door. "Tim, fetch the constable,"
she bawled.

Tim departed. So did the Colonel, realizing suddenly that there would be no profit in remaining. He emptied the half of the contents of the ducal purse into his palm and scattered it up and about her in a golden shower.

He flung out in a towering rage,
almost on the very heels of Tim and of the half-dozen men in the common room not one dared to dispute
his passage.

Chapter XIV

For three weeks Colonel Holmes waited in the Blue Bird in Wood Street for the promised message from his Grace of Buckingham, and his anxieties began to grow at last in a measure as he saw his resources diminishing. For he had practiced no husbanding of his comparatively slender means. He was well-lodged, ate and drank the best, and he had no
one or the other of two handsome suits which he had purchased from the second-hand clothes in Birchin Lane—considering this more prudent and economical than a return to the shops of Paternoster Row—and he had even indulged with indifferent fortune in gambling, which was one of his besetting sins.

Hence in the end he found himself fretted by the continued silence of the Duke, who had led him into so confident a state of hope. And he had anxieties on another score. There was, he knew, a hue-and-cry set afoot
by the Duke's disappearance, and it was a matter of time before the police would be on his heels. He was aware that search for him had been made at the Blue Bird in Hand, whether he had announced to her his intention of leaving or not.

On the third of the month the people had been startled in the City by the distant boom of guns, which had endured throughout the day to indicate that the German fleet and the British fleet were engaged and rather alarmingly close at hand. The engagement, as you know, was somewhere off the coast in the neighborhood of Harwich, and it ended in heavy loss to the Dutch, who drew off back to the Texel.

After the wild public rejoicings,
people seemed suddenly to awaken
to the fact that the war was over,
and to the more salubrious air of Salsbury, and there was a constant westward stream of coaches and wagons by Charing Cross, laden with people departing from the infected
town to seek safety in the country.

Colonel Holmes was much too obsessed by his own affairs to be deeply concerned with the general panic.
He was too busy to recall himself in a letter to the Duke. He waited in vain for a reply, and then, as despondency was settling upon him, came an added blow to quicken the
into a more acute and desperate
He returned after dusk one evening from an expedition in the course of which he had sold at last that jewel which had now served whatever purpose he had fondly imagined that it would serve. He had made use to which it could be put. As he re-entered the inn, Banks, the landlord, approached him, and drew him

on one side out of each and every mon room.

whilst Colonel Holmes, with his head
in the clouds and a greater swagger
than ever, stepped into the back parlor
where the Duke's room was, and he along toward Paul's Yard, fingering the jewel in his ear, which there no longer was the need to sell,

although there was no longer the need to retain it, since it had fulfilled
its purpose after long years. Destiny's purpose with himself.

Thus in high good-humor he strutted into the Paul's Head, to plunge
into a deplorable scene with Mrs.
Quinn.

"You haven't sold it?" she shrilled
as he stepped into the back parlor
where she was at the moment stirring, and she pointed to the ear-ring,
which glowed like an ember under a veil of his brown hair. "You've changed your mind. You think to come home here again, that you may save the trinket at my cost." And then the devil whispered and unfortunate thought, and so began in her a sudden furious jealousy.
Before he could answer her, before he could recover from the gaping amazement in which he stood to receive the onslaught of her wrath, she was sweeping on: "I understand!"
She learned an instant lesson. "It's a love-token eh. The gift of some lieve, whom ye do doubt covered as

THE PRESIDENT MEETS MR. DEMPSEY

"Will you have that chair over there, Mr. Dempsey?"

"Now, if you don't mind, Cal, I'll take this one with the sun at my back. We fighters gotta watch the little technical angles, you know."

"And didn't the charming Mr. Kearns come with you?"

"I couldn't get a stu out of him after he looted the treasury building was under guard."

"Tell me about this prizefighting business, is it actually brutal?"

"Calvin old fellow, you don't know the smallest fraction of it. Some of the punishment the spectators have to stand for is terrible."

"Would you suggest the ring as a profession for an ambitious young man?"

"Well, if he didn't know Doherty or Sinclair or any of them birds I'd say yes, because the money certainly does come easy."

"But you do have to take a lot of chances don't you?"

"Now, now. Collect in the advance. That's the smart trick."

"I suppose you are interested in politics?"

"I hope you aren't insinuating nothing Pres."

"But surely you must want to go and see Congress in session?"

"Now I can get more fun out of the burlesque shows, and usually it's a little more refined."

"What do you think of the Mellon plan?"

"It's a trifle early for 'em, ain't it?"

"You know Mr. Dempsey, you have a rare sense of humor?"

"Sure, that's why I can ask Rickard for $500,000 to meet a setup like Firpo and still keep a straight face."

At this point the presidential phone gave a hysterical shriek.

Danville Highs Administer Good Beating to C. T. S.

About 100 basketball fans mostly high school boys and girls braved the inclement weather Tuesday evening to see the Chatham Training School triumph over the Danville High School in a game of 35 to 16. From the starting whistle to the close of the game, the D. H. S. had the Chatham Training School boys outclassed and there was no doubt at any time to the final outcome of the game. The Danville High School boys and girls turned out en masse and gave their team all of the advantage from a standpoint of rooting for them tooth and nail. The D. H. S. girls proved themselves to be the most staid bunch of rooters imaginable, and with Miss Gladys Poe as cheer leader they came very near lifting the roof off the building with their high school yells.

The game was not so one-sided as the score would indicate. The Chatham Training School boys put up a hard fight and there was no lack of action at any time during the game. In fact the feature of the game was the useless amount of running and pulling by both sides and at times the game assumed the appearance of a knock down and drag out affair. Taylor, Franklin and Ruffin of the Danville High's and San and Orrell of the C. T. S. deserve special mention for their clever playing.

In this connection it will be of interest to know that the Chatham Training School beat Roanoke 30 to 12 and that Roanoke defeated the Danville Highs 17 to 11.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—While California educators are beginning to be horrified at the immense financial power of modern football no one in California seems to be concerned in the possibility of the Bears earning between $200,000 and a million dollars at football this year.

The $100,000 means a big return. It is well to note that the "champion" of the gridiron game at Berkeley in 1922, the game which Bears rolled up gross receipts of $200,000. Expenses of administration salaries totaled $42,417.70. Share for visiting teams at Berkeley was $264,422.41. Leaving a total net receipt of $100,000. In virtually every game played by California a home last fall thousands were turned away because of lack of seating capacity in the stadium. Even in the final game against Stanford in the new Memorial stadium, thirty thousand persons were unable to enter, being obliged to watch the game from the surrounding hillsides.

Accommodations for spectators will be increased next fall and all in all, football as a producer is likely to rival some of the old solid mines that

SPORTS GOSSIP

Ted Smith, a familiar figure at Stonehill Jackson park and last year one of Murphy's outer gardeners, has been granted his petition for retirement from baseball. Ted has mused up his mitt to pack away his bat and glove and permanently say good-bye to the greatest game of them all but if he pans out like a lot of these voluntarily retired ball players, he will be chasing around somebody's ball park before many summers pass again. Once they get it in the blood it is a hard matter to ever get rid of the baseball germ.

Manager Herb Murphy is due to show up in town the latter part of this week or the first of next, and then things will begin to hum around town. In another month the boys will begin showing up and practice will begin at Stonehill Jackson park in the meantime Herb will have plenty to occupy his spare moments in getting together his team, mulling over contracts, negotiating the wheel from the chair, arranging exhibition games, getting the ball yard in shape for practice and the host of other things necessary in preparing for a season on the diamond. Everyone is confident that Herb will have an outfit equally as good if not better than the one he assembled last season and last year's game was good enough to win the Piedmont confalon so what more can be asked?

Burke who was last year with the Richmond Club, in the Virginia wheel is mentioned as a strong contender for the keystone position in the Detroit American League aggregation, and it is stated that Ty Cobb, himself thinks that Burke will fit in nicely at the midway station of the Detroit machine. Detroit is now in training at Augusta, Ga.

Shaner, the outfielder who was with the local club year before last and went to New Orleans and from there to the Cleveland Indians, who farmed him out to the Eastern League, where he hit his head off, has been farmed out to Decatur, in the Detroit American League, for the season, where Ty Cobb thinks he will get the remainder of the training he needs to prepare him for the majors and the Indian pilot is banking heavily on the boy to fill a regular berth in the Cleveland outer garden in 1925. This Shaner is a real coming star and is positive he will stick in the big show in a year or two.

Tom Gheen, the underslung heaver who has pastured in various leagues in the vicinity and well known to local fans, has been traded to a club in the Michigan-Ontario League, the same league Rube Eldridge was destined to be railroaded off to, but balked. When Tom felt like he certainly could burn them over, but he is a little too temperamental to get along with the ordinary baseball boss. Nevertheless, the far north league gets a good center if they cannot make him work up there. While with Winston-Salem, in the Piedmont, the Doubtful Thomas hurled a no-hit game, but last year, in the Virginia League, he met with indifferent success. Maybe the change of scenery and climate will do the slabman good and if he ever settles down and puts his heart into his work he will win a lot of game for anybody he happens to be pitching for.

CRACK SPRINTER MAY EQUAL RECORD

By NEA Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—Back in 1900—lacking only a few months to make it 24 years—Alvin C. Kraenzlein started the world by winning four events at the Olympic games in Paris.

Kraenzlein, versatile track and field performer finished first in the 60-meter dash in 7 seconds, and won the 110-meter hurdles in 15.2-5 seconds, the 20-meter hurdles in 25.2-5 seconds and the running long jump with a mark of 23 feet 6-7-8 inches.

Since then six other Olympic classics have been held, but never has the record of Kraenzlein been equaled, according to Lawson Robertson, famous University of Pennsylvania track coach who has been selected to tutor the American track and field stars for the Eighth Olympiad to be held at Paris this summer.

Several times has an Olympic performer won three events during one of these international meets, particularly Ray Ewry, who scored three victories in each of the 1900 and 1904 Olympics and two each in the Olympic games of 1906 and 1908.

"Not until this year has a track athlete appeared on the horizon with a chance of running off with first place in four events and he is Loren Murchison, American sprint champion," declared Coach Robertson.

However, his chances to equal the once-brilliant feats of Kraenzlein are remote because today marks the epoch of specialized athletics, according to Coach Robertson.

Murchison, who wears the colors of the Newark Athletic Club, has been nominated for four places on an All-America track team at 60, 100, 220 and 300 yards—and in the coming Olympic games in Paris to be held in July, there is a chance for Murchison to sweep through to four victories.

Joe Turner as the other attraction on the card it appears that Sturgis took a fall out of Pinkie last summer in Maine somewhere and Friend Pink is going after Peter shovel and tongs.

Dempsey May Be Operated on In New York Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world will delay his proposed jump to the Pacific Coast long enough to undergo a minor operation for a hernia in this city, an ordeal that he will submit to possibly today.

The champion is eager to have the operation over with as he is ever restless in a big city.

Dempsey's determination to undergo the operation followed a consultation with a specialist, who advised that he go under the knife.

When Dempsey emerges from the hospital he will rest until he is given the word that he can make tracks for the Pacific Coast. When the champion has finished his Coast call he will return to New York to help out in the matter of arranging a few bouts for the summer.

V. M. I. DEFEATS HAMPTON SIDNEY

LEXINGTON, Va., Feb. 26.—V. M. I. defeated Hampton Sidney tonight in a raggedly played game 23 to 11. The cadets had a commanding lead in the first half, but the Tigers came back strong after the intermission. Long shots featured throughout the game, with the cadets running the ball several times from difficult angles, but both teams were off in casting easy shots. Ferguson raved the cadets a start with two neat side shots in the first minute of play. Thereafter there was a minimum of passing and a number of shots from near mid-floor. Semans registered on one of these attempts for V. M. I. and Adkins scored in a similar fashion for the Tigers, and the half ended 10 to 5. In the second half the guarding became closer and both quins passed cleverly. The visitors put up a game fight but never threatened V. M. I.'s lead. Gene Ferguson and Captain Ed Ryder were the outstanding cadet players and Harper and Adkins played well for Hampton Sidney.

Jack Dempsey Vs. Old Guard

By JOE WILLIAMS

How would Jack Dempsey have fared with the old-timers? Would he have beaten Bob Fitzsimmons? Possibly. Fitz was not a fine defensive fighter. It was not hard to hit him. And he was none too rugged. That old Cornishman never would have been able to come back after taking a few of Dempsey's blows.

On the other hand, could Dempsey have withstood the shock of one of Ruby Rob's dynamite punches? He never followed who hit with greater accuracy and force than Fitz and this does not except Fitz, who floor-floored the current champion last summer.

Tim Jeffries would have given Dempsey an interesting engagement. Jeff was heavier, tougher, more enduring and more experienced than the present champion.

The men he met and defeated were, generally speaking, far superior to those Dempsey shattered. Jeff, naturally left-handed, hit well with that hand. His right was not so good.

It is probably safe to say Demp-

Rojas Awkward and Clumsy as "Bull of Pampas"

(Associated Press Licensed Wire)

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The legend which grew around Luis Firpo when he came out of the Argentine is already beginning to envelop Quintan Romero-Rojas, Chilean heavyweight whom Tex Rickard has called from obscurity as a possible opponent for Jack Dempsey.

Firpo became the Wild Bull of the Pampas; Rojas was christened "The Wolf of the Andes" in Paris, where he did most of his battling.

Rojas is as awkward as Luis, Firpo has a flail-like blow in his right hand and Quintan uses a right hand hammer drive on the back of his opponent's neck. His style is distinct for its lack of form. He is said to be quite as hairy as Firpo, speaks no affection for his manager a feline "English" and maintains a brotherly Chilean front.

Although Quintan's clumsiness failed to impress critics in France, he never lost a fight there. He is as big and courageous as Firpo and since returning to South America has become prominent that the Buenos Aires boxing commission has threatened to vacate Firpo's South American title unless the Wild Bull consents to meet the wolf.

Much Interest In Coming Ky. Derby Event

(By the Associated Press.)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 27.—A trest of turf enthusiasts here is directed now to announcement, expected soon, of nominations for the Golden Jubilee running of the Kentucky Derby this year. Nominations closed at midnight last Saturday. The list is expected to exceed in number that of any previous year and observers here think it safe to say that the three-year-olds of 1924 are well above the average.

The derby route is a mile and a quarter for a $50,000 added purse. The winner receives in addition to first money, a gold trophy. This year the trainer of the winning horse is to receive a gold split second watch and the winning jockey will be rewarded with a pair of gold spurs. Of the probable list of entries, George

D Widener's St. James is the largest money winner as a two-year-old with a total of $89,359 in his credit.

Falls For Old Trick

By BILLY EVANS

Only the kind intervention of the umpire saved Pitcher Bob Hasty of the Philadelphia Athletics from being the victim of a moss-covered trick.

Hasty had just joined the Athletics, and naturally was not wise to the tricks of the trade as practiced in the big leagues. Being congenial, he merely sought to oblige when he fell for Charlie O'Leary's scheme.

The Athletics were playing at the Polo Grounds, and Hasty, despite his inexperience, was making the going tough for the Yankees. Late in the game, with the bases full and two out and the score close, O'Leary tried to put over his ruse.

As Hasty got on the rubber to pitch Charlie O'Leary, coaching at third for the Yankees, yelled at the pitcher complaining about the ball and requesting that he throw it over to him so he could look it over.

Hasty stepped off the rubber, dropped his arms to his side, gave the ball the once over and shook his head negatively to let O'Leary know it was all right.

The umpire, believing that possibly the ball was damaged and a new one should be put in play, called time with hearing of the batsman and catcher, and was about to request that Hasty throw the ball to him, when O'Leary again made a request that he be allowed to take a peep at the ball.

Hasty, probably peeved that O'Leary refused to take his word that the ball was in good shape, threw the ball at the Yankee coach with great force.

Of course, O'Leary stepped aside and permitted it to roll to the grandstand, the three runners scampering over the plate.

It got a big laugh, but the umpire, having called time, refused to allow the play, sending the runners back to their bases. O'Leary's strategy was wasted.

Mercer Basketeers Meet Mississippi In Semi-Finals

(Associated Press Licensed Wire)

MACON, Ga., Feb. 27.—Mercer University basketeers meet the Mississippi College five this afternoon in the semi-finals of the Southern Intercollegiate Association Basketball Tournament, while the other semi-final game, between Centre College and Newberry, is scheduled to be played tonight. The winners of the two games will meet tomorrow night for the association basketball championship.

Mercer, pre-tournament favorites, defeated Louisiana College last night 39 to 29, in the second round of the tournament. Newberry barely eased into the semi-finals by winning a bitter battle with Furman, 24 to 23.

Centre College defeated Chattanooga 27 to 25, and Mississippi College five took Wofford into camp by 42 to 32 in the afternoon games of the second-round yesterday.

Reds Push Suit For Alleged Libel

(By the Associated Press.)

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 27.—Attorneys for the Cincinnati National League Baseball club have been instructed to press as rapidly and forcibly as possible the suit brought by the club against the proprietor of Collier's, Eve, for alleged libel of Pat Duncan and Sammy Bohne. The action was based on an article published in the defendant paper just after the Reds had lost five straight games to the Giants last summer.

President August Herrmann expressed himself as greatly pleased when informed that Judge Carpenter, of Chicago, yesterday quashed the demurrer filed by the defendant.

MAKES LAST BID FOR WILLS-FIRPO

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—A final bid for a heavyweight battle July 19 between Luis Firpo and Harry Wills was contained today in a statement issued by the New York syndicate which has for several weeks been dangling a half million dollar purse in an effort to attract the principals into the match.

Restoring conditions imposed several days ago and subsequently rejected by Firpo, according to cable dispatches, the syndicate's statement asserts these terms will not be modified, and unless the Argentinian changes his attitude, all negotiations will be cancelled.

In learning something of the program which The Register has arranged to keep you informed and in touch with the field of baseball, leading up to the opening of the Big League Baseball season.

Arrangements have been completed whereby our special correspondent, the recognized authority on baseball, will start South on March 7th to visit the big league training camps; he will spend a month going from one to another until he sees them all in action, rookies and seasoned veterans alike.

JOHN B. FOSTER

Following is a partial schedule of our year round baseball sports service:

Now running.—Daily articles describing the camps where the big leagues will train. This will be in addition to daily baseball dispatches which Mr. Foster will write and wire regarding current developments.

March 7.—Foster will start South to cover the training camps and will file daily dispatches telling of conditions in the camps and of the men.

March 13.—Beginning with this date we will start publishing a "Question Box," the purpose of which will be to settle many close decisions, and answer questions concerning rules of the game, the records of players, high scores of other years, etc.

April 15.—The Big League baseball season opens and Foster will begin writing daily interpretive dispatches of the sports and the league games, explaining the unusual and controversial wherever it breaks.

FRY BROUGHT BACK TO DANVILLE, CARS VALUED AT $5,000 RECOVERED

Police Detective J. G. Lewis and his partner, W. P. Kessler, returned to Danville at half past two o'clock this morning carrying with them Luther Fry, who is charged with the theft of a Lincoln sedan, and two other stolen cars. Fry was taken to the jail here after being held in the Lincoln sedan, N. O. section where they were the chief factors in the recovery of the automobile stolen from Danville in the past few months.

The value of the cars thus recovered is estimated conservatively at $5,000. The same officers were instrumental in the recovery of twenty stolen automobiles at the time the local car stealing "ring" was exposed in 1921.

Upon return to Danville the two officers lost no time in availing themselves of the local data and records kept on file dealing with stolen cars and they expected that the list would be added to. They have a notebook filled with the numbers of stolen machines and they believe that further results will be obtained. A casual glance over the local records revealed that among the cars in custody at Lincolnton is one stolen here last June 3rd from R. W. Duncan, of Pelham, and which was cleared up this morning.

Chief of Police Bell this morning afforded every facility to the two officers in the hope of being able to prepare the car-stealing cases for the grand jury which meets on Monday so that the whole matter may be cleared up and disposed of and punishment meted out if the evidence which the officers have warrants in.

Officers Kessler and Lewis spent most of yesterday in trying to persuade the North Carolina authorities to relinquish their prior claim on the person of Luther Fry who was in Newton jail. While Fry was reported by Officer Kessler as anxious to come to Danville and what is more significant, eager to "pull his time," as the officer quoted him, the authorities at first showed no disposition to release him. The man was held in Newton jail for car robbery and there was some disposition on the part of the district solicitor to part with him. The Danville men, however, finally appealed to the district judge, showed him what evidence they had and after pointing out that the cars were stolen in Danville, the jurist consented to authorize Fry's removal to Danville provided found it necessary to return to his home. Senator Smoot also told of a conference which he and Chairman Lenroot had with the former secretary at the latter's hotel here a few days before Fall sent the letter to the committee in which he said McLean had made the $100,000 loan.

"We told him," said Mr. Smoot, "that everything in the record had been explained except where he got the money to improve and enlarge his ranch. He told us he had borrowed it from a local friend."

"I'm not a pauper," he said. "I can get money when I need it." "Well, Albert, why don't you tell the committee where you got it?" Senator Smoot said he told the former secretary.

"It's a private matter," was the reply. Senator Smoot said he told the committee and he told the public.

"We went to see Albert Fall as friends to get him to clear up the matter of the source of the ranch funds for his sake, the sake of the committee and of the public."

This was a day or two before he sent the letter to the committee that he got the funds from Edward B. McLean. If he hadn't sent that letter, the matter might never have been cleared up.

"Albert Fall was a sick man. While we were there he was lying on a couch and the perspiration was streaming off his face."

Senator Lenroot says that Fall said as we were leaving, that he got the money from Edward B. McLean but I did not hear him say that."

The Utah Senator declared that he informed Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, and other committee members of the information he later received regarding the matter of Doheny to testify about his loan to Fall.

Mr. Smoot made his public explanation today just before the oil committee again went into executive session to hear the testimony of Fall and McLean, at Palm Beach. Representatives of the Western Union and Postal companies brought telegrams to the committee room for examination.

OZLIN PILOT BILL PASSED BY THE HOUSE

Places Virginia Pilot Association Under Corporation Commission—Now Goes to Governor.

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Feb. 27.—By a unanimous vote, the Ozlin house bill, placing the Virginia Pilot Association under jurisdiction of the State Corporation Commission, today was passed by the Senate.

The bill now goes to the governor for his signature.

Immediately after the measure, which was passed by the lower body last night, was received in the Senate and referred to the committee on agriculture.

Senator Lessor, Norfolk City, moved that the committee be discharged and his motion was carried by a vote of 28 to 0. The Senate then voted 32 to 0 on the final passage of the measure.

The Senator explained that the Senate already had given the pilotage question thorough consideration and had passed his bill, which was received in the House.

There was little difference between the Lessor and Ozlin bills, he continued, asking that immediate action be taken on final passage of the House measure.

FORMAL TRIBUTE PAID HARDING BY CONGRESS, HUGHES EULOGIZES HIM

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Warren Gamaliel Harding "belonged to the aristocracy of the plain people of the country," Secretary Hughes said today in eulogy of the late president at the joint session of the Senate and House which formed the official memorial exercises for President Harding.

He was equipped for his task by inheritance and training which were truly and typically American," Mr. Hughes said.

He was neither helped or hampered by exceptional environment. He suffered neither from paucity nor riches. His endowment was a keen mind and a strong body.

"Alert to opportunity, self-reliant, facile and warm-hearted, he made his own way, owing his success to his tireless persistence and his unquenchable ardor in living."

Mr. Hughes said it was fitting that official tribute should be paid to the memory of a president but that the significance of the gathering today was far deeper than that.

"It is a tribute inspired by love of country, as laying aside the differences and controversies which seem but trivial in the face of man's providence, we stand united in the dissoluble bonds of common patriotism, knowing well that ungrateful republics cannot endure," he added.

The terms of democracy will be but vain vestiges of a vanished faith if their altar fires are not kept burning by the memory of those who have met the supreme test and have laid down their lives in heroic fidelity and self-sacrifice."

A close personal touch marked that portion of Mr. Hughes address which expressed the estimate of the dead president's character which could be seen only through association in his cabinet.

"Above all," the speaker said, "we give the tribute of deep affection which moves us to speak in tender remembrance of a generous and kindly spirit who counted human fellowship more precious than all the pomp and circumstance of power."

"Not only those who had the privilege of association but the vast multitude who bowed in grief at his passing, responded to the grace of his gentleness and called him brother and friend as well as president."

In speaking of the days in San Francisco after President Harding had been stricken and of the witness of the tragedy, Mr. Hughes said:

"Not long before, in intimate converse, when informed of the gravity of his condition and of the probability that he would still be condemned to a life of invalidism and the exercise of a constant movement would preclude the resumption of the routine of his labors, he had exclaimed 'well, if that's so, this story might as well come to an end.'"

"That was true," Mr. Hughes continued, "but the only life he desired, that of energy and usefulness, he could no longer hope to enjoy. Painlessly without warning, and in a moment of apparent refreshment, there was a slight movement and he was gone, lifted and he was at rest in God's peace."

Secretary Hughes told of the entry of Mr. Harding into journalism with the purchase of the Marion Star, commenting that the journalistic career constituted valuable training for public office because it demanded careful observation.

"Young Harding identified his success with that of his town," Mr. Hughes said. "He embodied the American spirit, carrying into the endeavors of the town the pioneer forebears and courage of his pioneer forebears."

He not only had his newspaper, but he codified and enforced them. Taking up Mr. Hughes said that he achieved distinguished position in the Senate where "his keen intelligence and common sense won for him general confidence and esteem while his unselfishness made him universally beloved."

The secretary recounted the steps President Harding followed to meet the necessities of readjustment of the nation to the ways of peace, and added:

"It was with an intense desire to contribute to the promotion of peace and find avenues of helpfulness that he contemplated that the chaotic conditions left by the great war and our relations to other peoples. His was not the spirit of a narrow or selfish nationalism. He wished no commitment which would forfeit or impair the independence and liberty of action which was the heritage of the republic. But he desired to safeguard this fortunate detachment from the ambitions and rivalries which had vexed the old world not only to conserve our own security but that America might use her freedom for an enlarged service."

Coming to the calling of the Washington conference for limitation of armaments, Secretary Hughes quoted from the address of President Harding to show that "his aspiration had long been declared."

"The distinctive feature of the Washington conference was the delicate and limited character of its aim," Mr. Hughes continued. "As the president said, 'it did not seek to remake human kind.' It did not waste its time in futileities; it sought results, not the vanities of related professions without accomplishment."

"There will always be problems in the far east but it is not too much to say that the Pacific and Far Eastern questions, as they existed at the time of the conference with their menace to the peace of the world are no more."

The secretary of State recalled the sad scenes of the funeral journey back to Washington and the solemn funeral services in the capitol when, he said, political differences were forgotten, criticism hushed and a united people stood before the open tomb."

He told also of the return to Marion, Ohio, and in concluding his address, said:

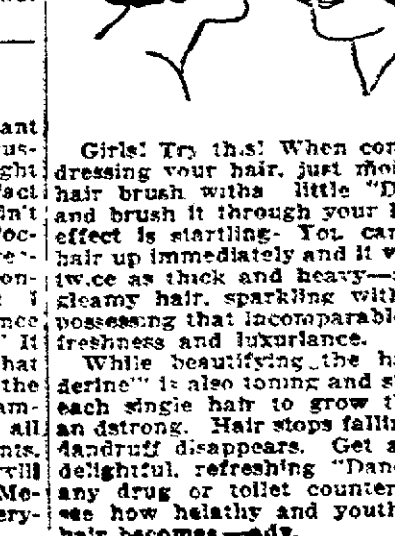

"Warren G. Harding gave his life for his country. No one can do more than that. He exhausted himself in service, a martyr in fidelity to the interest of the people for whom he labored with a passionate devotion."

"Nothing human was alien to him, but he had the divine gift of sympathy."

Beauty

A Gleamy Mass of Hair

33c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling. You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair, "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and deadness disappears. Get a bottle of this delightful, refreshing "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair becomes.—adv.

"If American life with all its possibilities of conflict and turmoil is to be worth living, it must be lived in the spirit of brotherly understanding of which he will ever be an exemplar in high office."

CONDEMNED USE OF SAILORS AS "STOOL PIGEONS"

(By Associated Press.) NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 26.—Use of United States sailors as "stool pigeons" was strongly condemned by Attorney Louis Brody, representing Mrs. Josephine DeRosa, charged with violation of the Mapp liquor law, today in police court. Attorney Brody in defending Mrs. DeRosa, who was alleged to have sold a pint of liquor to Lt. Louis Miller, at her home last night, declared that he thought the employment of uniformed enlisted men of the government as "stool pigeons" was an outrage. Mrs. DeRosa was held for action of March grand jury by Justice Spindle. 27rb3

MORNING COTTON LETTER

Thomson & McKinnon
NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Cables are good this morning and business seems to have picked up in Manchester. If Liverpool spot sales continue large for the rest of the week, look for a change in the market. Feel quite sure the storm is over and expect a fine trading market. Advise purchases on declines and would not be afraid to reverse my position after an advance of 80 or 100 points.

Weather conditions in south are not favorable for early farm preparations.
Interesting Facts
Ground freezes 100 feet deep in Siberia.
Business day population of the Woolworth Building, New York, is approximately 14,000.
More than 243,000,000 gallons of water are supplied daily to the city of London by the Metropolitan Water Board.

Education Report Is Made Public

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The seventy-nine American cities having an estimated population between 50,000 and 100,000 in 1922 spent $91,344,000 for educational purposes other than libraries in that year. Census bureau statistics issued today show 44 of the 79 cities spent more than $1,000,000 each, and that four of them spent more than $2,000,000 each. The average per capita expenditure for teachers' salaries and other expenses of operation and maintenance, exclusive of costs of outlays and permanent improvements, amounted to $12.77 for 1922 as compared with $5.55 in 1917.

Sacramento has the largest total expenditure with $2,359,000, of which $1,770,000 was for permanent improvements. Canton, Ohio, spent $2,194,000, including $1,612,000 for improvements. Schenectady, $2,174,000, including $929,000 for improvements and Hoboken $2,111,000 including $1,031,000 for improvements.

Waterbury led in expenditures for teachers' salaries and other expenses of operation and maintenance, exclusive of permanent improvement outlays, with $1,525,000. Oklahoma City was second with $1,479,000 and Tulsa third with $1,230,000. Other cities which spent more than $1,000,000 for that purpose were: Jacksonville, $1,082,000; San Diego, $1,274,000; Bayonne $1,271,000; Wichita $1,087,000; Sioux City $1,138,000; South Bend, $1,038,000; Rockford, $1,010,000; Terre Haute $1,045,000; Berkeley $1,148,000; Fresno $1,146,000 and Pasadena $1,223,000.

Pasadena had the largest per capita expenditure for teachers' salaries and other expenses of maintenance and operation—$24.02—while Fresno was second with $21.90 and Berkeley third with $19.37. Savannah had the smallest per capita expenditure with $4.03.

Strangler Lewis Strikes Zbyszko; Police Intereene

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, and referee Pat McGill were escorted from the ring by policemen last night after McGill awarded the deciding fall to Lewis in a match with Stanislaus Zbyszko, fifty-year-old former champion, who was struck and knocked unconscious by Lewis.

Admirers of Zbyszko expressed loud disapproval of a disqualification of the fight. After the bout Lewis and Zbyszko shook hands, but later followers of the Pole credited him with the statement that Lewis struck him on the point of the jaw with his closed fist. Referee McGill explained that the Pole had been heard to say Lewis' open hand and that such tactics were permissible under the rules.

Lewis won the first fall in 24:25 with a headlock. Zbyszko, employing arm locks continually, took the second in 7:30, with a short arm scissors.

It was the sixth meeting between the pair. Lewis is credited with four victories and Zbyszko two.

DECLINES SUGGESTION.
LONDON, Feb. 26.—It is learned from a high authority that Prime Minister MacDonald has turned down a suggestion by Gustav Stresemann, former chancellor of Germany, and now foreign minister, that he visit London to discuss the creation of the gold bank proposed by the allied experts committee and the entry of Germany into the League of Nations.

According to a weekly journal, a beautiful mouth can be obtained by merely pressing the lips tightly together for two hours at a time. This is said to be a synthetic method but hands are at work.—Passing Show

The REFEREE

BY ALBERT APPLE.

AGO

The newspapers of Abraham Lincoln's day were small, usually four pages. They had very little advertising. It took real courage by A. T. Stewart when he began running 10-line ads about bargains in his New York store, for advertising was a new device.

John Wanamaker bought Stewart out and "plunged" by inventing modern department store advertising. This was a page in history. For, after all, the history of business is the history of America.

WEATHER

All of us are eternally growling about the weather. But if we don't like it, we can move. Nature is a magnificent hotel-keeper, ready to provide any kind of accommodations wanted.

Professor Barnes of McGill University in Montreal reports that in Greenland the snow is nearly two miles deep in places.

Science is exceptionally interesting, scientifically. But most of us are interested mainly because we're not living there and have to shovel.

POCKETBOOK

A few factories are closing down here and there, but the undercurrent of pessimistic talk is without basis. An excellent weathervane of general business is in freight handled by the railroads. They now are loading 93 cars for every $6 cars a year ago and 75 cars two years ago.

DEBATE ON THE REVENUE BILL NEARING CLOSE

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—House members prepared today to wind up the revenue bill debate before the end of the week and leaders of both parties took advantage of the first legislative day off from discussion of the measure since it was taken up two weeks ago to sound out their forces for the fight when a final vote is taken.

The contest over reduction of the automobile taxes will be considerable. A considerable sentiment was expressed in the brief and heated debate on these proposals yesterday in favor of reducing the five per cent. tax on automobile tires and accessories to 2 1/2 per cent. and repealing the 3 per cent. on automobile trucks having chassis selling for less than $1,000.

Before reaching this section of the bill yesterday, the House inserted a gift tax in the measure, approved by a vote of 10 per cent. admission tax on theater tickets selling for fifty cents and less, and voted to increase from $3 to 4 per thousand the tax on cigarettes.

Extended contests over other of the miscellaneous taxes yet to be considered are expected, although Representative Rainey, Illinois, a Democratic member of the Ways and Means committee, said on the floor yesterday he would propose restoration of the chewing gum tax.

Secretary Mellon's proposal for a board of tax appeals, placed in the bill with some changes to give the power of appointment of members to the president rather than to the treasury secretary, also remains to be considered.

The last section of the bill is the provision for a 25 per cent. reduction in 1933 personal income tax payable this year. Democratic leaders have announced their intention to propose that the Garner income rate schedule be made retroactive a year as substitute for the flat cut.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—The cotton market opened steady with a healthier feeling. Liverpool was better than due owing to a belief that the Lancashire lockout will not materialize. Weather overnight was still unfavorable and the weekly weather report was decidedly bullish. First trades showed gains of 20 to 32 points and the near months soon gained 3 to 9 points additional owing to telegrams from South Texas reporting that all early cotton already up had been killed by the freeze. New York reported 5,400 additional March notices checked there this morning. Worth street sold $2,000,000 of cotton goods yesterday.

MORNING STOCK LETTER

Thomson & McKinnon

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Anaconda is blamed for a weak market. But yesterday wasn't the first weak market that we have had in the last two weeks. Therefore the passing of the Anaconda dividend of one incident taken in connection with other points in the market, leads to the conclusion that bulling is a difficult undertaking at this time. To illustrate the point—Bloss Sheffield paid a dividend but the stock is lower than it was before it was paid. Similarly, this year, United States Steel, doing a capacity business and paying extra dividends and the stock is lower than it has been this year. American Locomotive shows a wonderful improvement and the stock does nothing. Baldwin Locomotive recently issued a fine statement and the stock is lower than it was at this year.

What does it all mean? It means that the market does not respond to

NEW YORK STOCKS.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Reactionary price tendencies prevailed at the opening of today's stock market. Heaviness was again apparent in the copper shares in further reflection of the passing of the Anaconda dividend. Missouri Pacific pfd. dropped about a point and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe broke 2 3/8.

Buying of the steel shares steadied the list somewhat around the end of the first half hour. Gulf States advancing a point and U. S. Steel more 3 1/4. Gains of a point or more also were registered by Dupont, Davison Chemical and Sears Roebuck. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe extended its loss to 3 7/8 points, touching 64 3/8, a new 1924 low. Virginia Carolina Chemical issues also touched new low prices, the common dropping 1 1/8 and the preferred 2 3/4. Chile Copper, a South American property, moved to higher ground, the company being regarded as one of the few to operate at a satisfactory profit at present prices of copper. Foreign exchanges opened irregular.
